

AIA College of Fellows

Celebrate Our New Fellows!!!

As we reimagine life following an unprecedented year, large face to face gatherings remain a challenge...Let's reinvent our Fête this year and lean into our knowledge gained on the power of virtual connections.

Let's celebrate our new Fellows! Details on p.2.

Class of 2021

Allison Ewing, FAIA, is the founder/partner at Hays+Ewing Design Studio in Charlottesville.

As architect and leader, Allison Ewing advances sustainability through design, implementation and advocacy - both within and beyond the architectural profession - by modeling change in the building industry with solutions both visionary and practicable.

Kathleen O. Frazier, FAIA, is co-founder of Frazier Associates in Staunton.

Kathleen Frazier has revitalized the historic heart of communities in Virginia and nationwide for the past forty years, transforming attitudes toward the built heritage through her dedication to historic preservation, economic revitalization, and community engagement.

Brian J. Frickie, FAIA, is principal at Kerns Group Architects in Falls Church.

Brian Frickie delivers aspirational, enduring, and inspirational leadership across the AIA at all levels. His visionary activism and collaborative, participatory style uphold the profession's stature, elevate the organization's relevance, and empower individual architects as leaders.

Kathleen M. Galvin, FAIA, is the owner of Galvin Architects in Charlottesville.

Kathleen M. Galvin synthesizes her work as an architect, citizen and elected official, to create just, healthy places; build sustainable, connected communities; and end poverty, while inspiring young architects to answer the call to serve.

Welcome & Congratulations ... to each of you for your exceptional work and your achievement.

Thank You ...

for the significant contributions you have made to the profession and to society.

David A. Keith, FAIA, is the chief executive officer and design principal at Hanbury in Norfolk.

David Keith champions a model of practice driven by continuous talent development, creating a thriving culture of design excellence and transforming the firms that he leads and the communities and campuses in which he works.

Daniel J. Lemieux, FAIA, serves as Principal and a Director for Wiss, Janney, Elstner Associates, Inc. in Falls Church.

Daniel Lemieux has led the advancement of building science in architecture throughout his over 25-year career in professional practice and as a thought-leader in the development of international technical design and construction standards.

David H. Peabody, FAIA, is the owner of Peabody Architects in Alexandria.

David Peabody pioneers passive and zero-energy building in the United States. Through practice, advocacy and collaboration, he advances the design profession's leadership in the transition to an economy built on connected, energy-positive buildings.

Alice J. Raucher, FAIA, is the architect for the University of Virginia.

As an architect, educator, and design leader of two internationally recognized university campuses, Alice Raucher consistently strives to build community through her commitment to innovative campus planning, historical relevance, and architectural design excellence.

The purpose of the College of Fellows is to stimulate a sharing of interests among Fellows, to promote the purposes of the Institute, to advance the profession of architecture, and to be of ever-increasing service to society.

Class of 2020

Our region's Fellows class of 2020 was recognized in regional, state, and national publications; however, their announcement occurred at a time filled with uncertainty and cancellations. We will celebrate both classes and we hope you can join in this double celebration for our region!

R. Corey Clayborne, FAIA, is the Executive Vice President of AIA Virginia.

What the jury had to say: Corey Clayborne creates a dramatically more diverse and sustainable leadership pipeline to the profession by accelerating the transition of students into practice, reshaping the path toward licensure, and empowering young architect to leave a legacy.

Robert L. Easter, FAIA, is the President of KEI Architects in Richmond and Chair, Department of Architecture at Hampton University.

What the jury had to say: Robert Easter is a passionate and successful advocate for diversity and inclusion in the profession. His activism and leadership, including service as NOMA president, inspires a stronger learning environment for students and emerging professionals.

H. Randolph Holmes, Jr., FAIA, is the President and Senior Principal at Glavé & Holmes Architecture in Richmond.

What the jury had to say: H. Randolph Holmes is an artist and historian, both visionary and curatorial. Long admired for his dedication to honoring the finer attributes of architectural classicism, Randy creates environments and spaces that elevate the human spirit.

Gregory L. Rutledge, FAIA, is Design Principal and Historic Architect for Hanbury in Norfolk.

What the jury had to say: Gregory Rutledge is recognized by clients, peers and international colleagues not only for his design philosophy and technical expertise in preservation but for the power of his projects to contribute to and revitalize communities.

W. Kenneth Wiseman, FAIA, is Design Principal for Cannon Design in Washington, D.C.

What the jury had to say: In designing inventive, high-performance sports facilities for Olympic and collegiate athletes across North America, W. Kenneth Wiseman has created new conceptual models and planning standards now adopted by sports institutions worldwide.
